MEASURING YOURSELF FOR A CATSUIT

Please use inches, and a dressmakers measuring tape (not one from a hardware store)

Measurements should be done while wearing underwear (esp a bra, or any foundation garment you intend to wear under the catsuit!) you may also wear a form fitting thin garment, such as bathing suit or body stocking if desired. Don't pull the tape tight, it should lay flat, untwisted and the 0 should easily overlap to the correct number. For the most reliable measurement place markers at the waist and the other horizontal points indicated on the accompanying diagram (using tape, washable marker, or by tying on a ribbon) so that this point can be referenced when taking other measurements.

—full size diagram on page 3

- 1. How Tall Are You?
- 2. Measure down from the nape of the neck to the waist (bellybutton, unless narrowest point is not at belly button and please indicate) at the back, and front.

- 4. Measure from waist to floor.

NECK/BACK

ARMS

- 11. Measure around the largest part of your upper arm, just below the elbow and the narrowest part of wrist (or where you would like the sleeve to end)
- 12. What kind of neckline or collar do you want?

BUST

13. Measure your upper chest, this is above your nipple line, straight across from arm to arm, try and get a measurement from the front, and again for the back.

- 14. Chest/Bust: wrap the tape around you at the fullest point, usually at the nipples, to measure your chest/bust, try and get a measurement from the front, and again for the back.
- 15. Measure from nipple to nipple across the body
- 16. Measure from the fullest point down to your waistline, in a straight line.

WAIST

- 23. What is your waist measurement? If you can, let me know the front waist as well as the total (drawing a line on your side will help)
- 24. To get the curve of your hips correct for the pattern take measurements around your body 3" and 5" down from waist (Again, total and front will be a real help)
- 25. Measurement your hips at their fullest and how far from your waist this is, try and get a measurement from the front, the side and again for the back..
- 26. Would you like a waistline in the catsuit? If so, where you would like the waistband of your trousers to start? This can be on or below the natural waist. Measure around your body at this point?

- 27. Measure in a straight line down from your waist to the level of your crotch to get your crotch depth length. (Easiest done when sitting in a chair measure down the side from your waist to where the chair is)
- 28. Measuring from the tape at your natural waist, take the tape down to your crotch, underneath and up to the back waist. This measurement is called your rise, what is the total rise measurement? And halfway from the front?
